IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. 137,000 GERMANS USED IN ATTACK ON 11-MILE FRONT WEST MERVILLE

(Associated Press.) British troops are standing firm before strong enemy attacks on the front north of Arras, while southeast of Amiens the French have driven the Germans back in the region of Castel. The heaviest fighting on the northern front is on the southern side of the salient from St. Venant, west of Merville, to Giverny. On this eleven-mile front the Germans are using ten divisions, or about 137,000 men.

Capture of most of the Messines-Wytschaete ridge by the Germans did not seriously weaken the British positions, as Field Marshal Haig outwitted the enemy by withdrawing his lines northeast and east of Ypres. In this region the Germans are foundering in mud which efforts to turn the British line south of Ypres by taking Kemmel hill have failed, with severe losses. Twice Thursday the Germans threw large forces against this hill, but each time were thrown back in sharp encounters. Intense fighting and artillery duels continue here and westward toward Meteren. In switching their strong efforts from the north to the south, the Germans have not yet gained any success. Their evil-gained desire on the front northwest of Giverny is to cross the La Bassée canal and outflank Bethune and with it probably Lens and Arras. The elimination of the Lens-Arras salient would make less secure the allied line in Picardy.

Heavy attacks have been delivered east of St. Venant and near Giverny but the enemy has gained no advantage, being checked everywhere with large casualties. Giverny is again the center of fierce struggles as it was ten days ago, but the British there are still as firm as formerly. It is an important position in its bearing on the defenses of Bethune and Lens.

Berlin, for the first time since the northern operations began, announces in its latest communication "that the situation is unchanged." The French success on the three-mile front running from the north to the southwest of Moreuil. The apex of a sharp-pointed salient west of Castel was within three miles of the railway running south from Amiens and was the nearest the Germans had got to Amiens in the offensive which began more than four weeks ago. The Germans have been driven from Senecet wood and the French have reached the outskirts of Castel and progress also was made south of Castel. Five hundred prisoners, including fifteen officers, were captured by the French.

Italian troops will be sent to the western front to aid the embattled allied troops against the Germans. Announcement to this effect has been made in the Italian chamber of deputies by Premier Orlando.

The various political parties in Ireland have patched up their differences and will resist conscription "by the most effective means" at their disposal. The Irish bishops and a conference of political parties presided over by the lord mayor of Dublin, both have signified their purpose to resist. The government manpower bill, including the Irish conscription clause, has received the assent of King George, but no home rule measure has yet been submitted to parliament.

Stoppage of all work in Austria on May 1 to hold demonstrations for peace have been ordered by the German socialist party in Austria, according to Amsterdam reports.

Rotary Composes Its Own Songs and Then Sings 'Em

The following song was sung at the meeting of the Chattanooga Rotary club Thursday. Clark Bradford lending his vocals to the task. The words are by Clem Woodworth and the music by Roy Lamont Smith:

General Erwin, thy friends to this luncheon all come
With their arms filled with garlands for thee,
And the forty long years—that's sure going home—
That you've served in the U. S. Army.
And well we remember in the days of your youth
You presided o'er Southern Baseball,
And Andrews and Patten both say if you'd stuck
They are sure they'd not lost their all.

To this luncheon you bring us the pride of your camp,
Colonel Penrose and "Doc" Birmingham.
We hope that the colonel will keep all he's got,
If he hangs them we don't give a damn.
To Crowley and Newell and our own Colonel Smith
We extend to them all a glad hand.
But when to a showdown it really does come,
We think Pickering beats the band.

And to Colonel Jordan we all point with pride
But this Tompkins to us is unknown.
We come from Missouri, and as you well know,
Missourians have to be shown.

And when you "go over," remember you leave
A people this side of the "pond"
Who are loyal and true, who stand back of you—
And will buy every Liberty Bond.

We hail you with pride, we will always revere
What you did in the far Philippines.
You're a soldier, a man, and a great brigadier,
And everyone knows what that means.

They say the nourished in those beautiful isles
A species of graft you put down.
Please don't try it here, it would injure Cantrell
And surely would ruin the town.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS CAUGHT IN STORM IN LOUISIANA

Chicago, April 19.—L. F. Loree, widely known as a director of a railroad; J. A. Edson, president of the Kansas City Southern railway, and Phillip D. Armour III, were among those in a barracks at Camp Gretna, La., Thursday when a storm tore away the roof of the building, according to a special from Lake Charles.

Mr. Loree and Mr. Edson had taken refuge from the storm in the barracks. Armour, a grandson of the founder of Armour & Co., is a member of the Twenty-fifth Aero Squadron. A. I. Moore, a private of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed by a live wire broken down by the wind.

GERMANY SURROUNDED BY WALL OF SECRECY

Strong Indications That Officials Fear Revolution—Efforts to Suppress Hostile Propaganda.

(By Bert Ford, International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

With the American Army in France, April 19.—German military authorities have become as active suppressing hostile propaganda at home as they have been in fostering pro-German propaganda in America. This is shown by a quotation drawn from a German bulletin. It says in part:

"Baron Von Gayl, general commanding the seventy German army corps in Muenster, offers 3,000 marks to the person who first succeeds in implicating any English or American agent guilty of inciting disturbances or revolution in this district, in such manner as may be condemned by the courts."

The foregoing is the first indication that the German authorities have come to fear an actual revolution. It is true that there have been labor troubles in Germany, but the German government claimed they were without any political significance.

There are two imposing elements in the situation: First—The effect of the Russian revolution and the spread of bolshevik influence.

Second—The utterances of President Wilson, which were intended to open the eyes of the German people to the fact that they were being held in a state of subjection by their military masters.

A wall of secrecy surrounds Germany and the true situation in the empire today is unknown to the outside world.

However, as the German authorities have begun to take steps against possible uprisings, there is every reason to believe that unrest has begun to manifest itself.

the northerly side of the battlefield, southwest of Ypres, where they are finding the British firmly installed on the dominating heights. These assaults, like the preceding ones, were failures. On the same battle front the French have held to their gains of yesterday in the region of Castel, where they drove in the Mount Kemmel region, on the northerly side of the battlefield, southwest of Ypres, where they are finding the British firmly installed on the dominating heights. These assaults, like the preceding ones, were failures.

On the Somme battle front the French have held to their gains of yesterday in the region of Castel where they drove the Germans further from the line of the Paris-Amiens railway in a spirited local attack. German machine gun nests on the front of this attack were wiped out by the French during the night.
